Pleasanton voters to pick three for council

PLEASANTON — Voters will visit the polls between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Tuesday to choose three council members who will serve four year terms.

William Herlihy will be the only candidate listed as an incumbent. Councilman Roger McLain, appointed by the council 10 months ago to fill the place vacated by Assemblyman Floyd Mori, cannot be listed as an incumbent because he has held the office less than a year.

He will be designated as an "M.E. design associate."

The third council position up for election is held by Mayor Ed Kinney, who decided not to run for re-election.

Independent insurance agent Robert Attebery opposes the average annual growth rate of two percent until 1996 as "discriminatory in the ultimate." He didn't suggest an alternative, but feels that the city first must solve its sewage treatment problem and "get priorities set in line first."

He favors construction of the Las Positas overpass, as do all other candidates, and thinks the city does not need the Stoneridge overpass. Adding more fire personnel will cost the city more, but if the city doesn't add them, fire insurance rates are likely to increase, so the homeowner will lose two ways, not just one, said Attebery.

He opposes creation of a Human Services Department, feeling that the county and state already have enough social services for Pleasantonites. On the issue of communication, Attebery said that if the council is a rubber stamp, it is because the group is not doing its homework well enough. It could avoid rubber-stamping by getting meeting agendas a few days earlier so members would have more time to research the issues they discuss on Monday nights, he said.

Frank Brandes would help solve the communication problem by having his own volunteer staff for more input on the issues. He thinks there are experts in many fields living in Pleasanton who would be glad to sharpen his wits and do some digging into things so that he would not have to rely totally on stff input.

Brandes said he has been a strong advocate of building the Las Positas overpass since he moved here four years ago. The issue should go to the ballot as a bond issue so the voters themselves can decide its fate directly, he said.

The two percent average annual growth rate does not satisfy Brandes, but he would not go as high as a seven or eight percent rate, either. The important thing is to make the decision locally in view of the needs for revenues and the capital improvement expense implications.

Brandes is a controller for Sears in Oakland and served on the city's general plan review committee.

Gene Finch's top priority is construction of the Las Positas overpass. He lives in Highland Oaks and "knows what a pain in the neck it is" to travel from west Pleasanton to downtown, where he is a self-employed businessman.

Solving the sewer problem is another big priority because it is essential to attracting industry, said Finch. More fire suppression personnel in the next city budget also ranks high with Finch.

Harmony between staff and citizens is important to Finch. He thinks the "left hand does not know what the right hand is doing" on the staff and that's "why we have some of the law suits we have."

Herlihy, administrator in a physics group at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, has served one term on the council. He previously served on the city's park and recreation commission.

Herlihy doesn't like the city's two percent growth rate and thinks the Environmental Protection Agency was inconsistent in imposing it. The same has not happened to Walnut Creek or San Jose, he told The Times. He would not favor a 10 percent growth rate, but perhaps something like five or six percent.

Herlihy thinks the staff should preserve the "small town" attitude of the past in dealing with citizens, remembering that service is the city staff's business.

Herlihy was instrumental in acquiring Youth Sports Park for the city and he would like to see it completed as rapidly as possible. He thinks that construction of the Las Positas overpass is a high priority item and that a citizens committee should advise the council on the city's capital improvements priorities.

Jim Jordan, a writer and editor at a Peninsula book firm, emphasized taxes and communication in his campaign. He thinks the city should publish a quarterly newsletter informing citizens of how their taxes are being spent. Jordan said he is the only candidate who advocates lobbying Sacramento intensely to try to get reimbursement if local funds build the overpass.

Leap Year celebrant

There is no doubt in Danielle Blanchard's mind-that she would prefer to be "sweet 16" rather than the four years old if she followed the calendar. Danielle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blanchard of Pleasanton, was born on Leap Year Day. What day does she celebrate her birthday other years? "Feb. 28, March 1, both or whenever anyone wants to celebrate," she said, "I love birthdays." A family dinner in San Francisco is planned for the young miss's celebration.

Girls, it's time for Leap Year action

Well, girls, they're out there waiting for you!

It's Leap Year, and if you don't remember what that means, the single men in the Valley do.

It's supposed to be the year that women take the initiative and propose marriage to men.

The custom dates back at least 650 years. A Scottish statute of 1288 read: "It is ordained that during Leap Year any maiden lady of high or low estate shall have the liberty to bespeak the man she likes. Albeit he refuses to take her to be his lawful wife, he shall be mulcted in the sum of one pound, except he can make it appear that he is betrothed to another."

Along the same lines, ladies today who are too shy to do it in person can send their beloved a card that says something like: "Be my tootsy wootsy...or I'll break your armsy warmsy." (Hallmark.)

Despite the venerable custom, not one man in Parents Without Partners said he had been invited by a woman to PWP's annual Sadie Hawkins Day dance held last night.

"I wish they'd hurry up!" pouted PWP Larry Graham.

The Rev. Howard Acton, recently divorced, observed, "I think it ought to work both ways."

Joanne Conner confessed she had asked a man to marry her but he had refused.

"But it was jokingly," she amended. "I do that all the time, it's great fun."

Judie Golden thought things were "definitely changing" and that women were increasingly taking the initiative in pursuing men.

But as much as the single men were professing eagerness for some Leap Year action, the women were mostly reduced to shy giggles.

Jean Pefley summed it up for them: "I don't think I'm there yet."

Murray District bond decision due

A total of 7,757 residents of the Murray School District are eligible to cast ballots in Tuesday's election which will determine if the school board may sell $1 million in bonds and who will be seated as Joanne Bascom's replacement on the Murray board.

Their are nine precincts in the Pleasanton section of the Murray district and five in Dublin. Precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday. Tally of all precincts should be completed by 10 p.m.

At stake is whether the district gets the authorization to sell bonds so that the intermediate school planned for the Dolan site in Silvergate can be built. The electorate must approve the bonds by a two-thirds vote before the district can be eligible for any further construction monies.

Competing for the board position are Dawn Rutter, Dr. Harry Overline, Art Laursen, Linda Jeffery, Eugene Hinton and Harrietta Dahlin.

Mrs. Jeffery, a 13-year resident of the area who has two children in Murray schools, has been endorsed for the board position by The Times.

Hinton and Mrs. Rutter have run unsuccessfully for the board in past elections. Mrs. Dahlin has been active in schools affairs, Dr. Overline is a college professor and newcomer to the district while Laursen is a former board member who did not run in the regular election held last year for previously stated personal reasons.

The winning candidate will serve through March of 1977 at which time a total of three positions on the board will be up for election. Present board members include Robert Foster, president; Dr. Ted Woy, clerk; Peter Snyder, and Ann Henderson.

Though no organized opposition to the bond issue has surfaced, turnouts at almost all of the candidates-bond issue information nights have been meagre.

The lone exception was Thursday night at Donlon School when almost 60 persons turned out for a meeting organized by the Donlon Parent - Faculty Club.

Audience members had a host of questions on the bond measure, many centered around where remaining monies from the 1972 bond are now and where future seventh and eighth graders from the Donlon area would go — assuming the seventh-eighth grade school is built.

In answer to the question on where remaining bond monies, and the interest they have drawn, are, business manager Phillip Chubb responded they were with the state.

However, The Times learned earlier Thursday that prior to this fiscal year the interest was going back into the county general fund.

A member of the county treasurer's office alleged that Superintendent Donald Williams had the option of asking to have the money invested on the district's behalf but did not follow up.

According to the spokesman, the only time a district collects interest on their money is after taxes are collected and the account (Murray's in this case) is free of any loans to the county.

In any event, as stated by assistant superintendent Heinz Gewing Thursday, passage of the bond issue Tuesday will not guarantee that the second building on the Dolan site will be built.

The district is still short by approximately 200 of the enrollment count needed to qualify by the rather complicated state formula.

The bond issue and the candidates will make one final appearance before Tuesday — at a session being organized by the Murray Teachers Association on Monday at 7 p.m. in C Pod of Donlon School.

The meeting is open to the public and will precede the regular Murray school board meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Donlon School is located on Dorman Road in the Val Vista section of Pleasanton.

Vet valley Safeway manager promoted to San Leandro post

PLEASANTON — Tom Matsumoto is saying goodbye to Pleasanton, and it's a sad parting.

Matsumoto, a life-long Pleasanton resident and manager of Safeway for nine years, is leaving to manage the San Leandro Safeway store.

It's a good promotion for him, after 24 years with the company, but Matsumoto finds it hard to leave.

"This is the nicest area I've ever been in," said Matsumoto as he cleaned up his office to make room for his successor.

"And Pleasanton people are the nicest I've ever worked with," he said.

Matsumoto recall fondly his days at Pleasanton Elementary School. He remembers the day he bought his Amador High School belt buckle — he graduated from Amador in 1944.

"This is my home town and I hate to leave it," he said. "I've made many friends — not just as customers."

Matsumoto said he would not become a stranger to Pleasanton. He plans to keep a horse here. Horseback riding is his hobby.

"I hope the town will be as friendly to the new manager as they've been to me," Matsumoto said.

Matsumoto's last duty in the Pleasanton store will be to show new manager Bob Nethery, manager of Safeway in Moraga, around the store. And then, it's off to San Leandro.

Pleasanton is sad to see him go.

Petaluma rule draws praise in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — The Supreme Court's upholding of the Petaluma growth control ordinance is a good thing for this city, all six city council candidates contacted by The Times agreed last week. (Candidate Robert Attebery was unavailable for comment.)

"I'm pleased with it," said Councilman Roger McLain. "It makes it very clear that cities can now manage growth on a basis other than the number of sewer connections available."

The court decision will enable Pleasanton to get such a good grip on development that it can prevent "leapfrog development" which occurs too far away from the city's main core to allow an economical delivery of city services, said McLain.

In the long run, developers will like growth control, too, said McLain. "I find it hard to visualize a developer being able to sell homes or develop commercial and industrial property where there are inadequate city services or high costs. You can attract industry easier with low taxes," said McLain.

Councilman William Herlihy said growth control "has been my philosophy. I always maintained we ought to be able to control our own growth rate. The decision was a favorable one for Pleasanton. In the 1960s a lot of people were concerned about the runaway growth rate. Now we can control the rate, which presently is 2.5 percent."

Candidate Frank Brandes said the court decision "is outstanding. To me it shows that a city which does have a proper growth management plan can prevail over builders and other outsiders. Such a growth management plan is long overdue for Pleasanton, as mentioned in the general plan review."

"I was one of those who thought that Pleasanton should have joined Petaluma in the law suit, as some cities did. It's interesting that some candidates and city staff who are overjoyed now would not give Petaluma any aid in their cause," said Brandes.

Candidate Gene Finch said, "I think the city should be able to control its own destiny. We have too many governmental agencies dictating to the communities what we can do and can't do. I am pleased we are in a position now to govern our own destiny in respect to growth.

"Now that that responsibility is ours, we must be careful not to outgrow the services we have available to us. I think we should grow with city services. It's important that we take a responsible position in respect to what the community wants in the way of growth," said Finch.

Candidate Ken Mercer told The Times: "It appears that the federal government said that the cities can control growth. I'm advocating keeping the population level at 48,700 (the 20 year EO growth standard). I agree with the city manager that it's good the Supreme Court decided in favor of the community."

"I'm pleased with it," said candidate Jim Jordan. "It gives us an opportunity to look seriously at our growth management plan to see how we will grow and manage ourselves."

Mori seeking new sales tax distribution

HAYWARD — Assemblyman Floyd Mori is working on a revenue plan which would distribute sales tax on a regional rather than the local basis.

A member of the Assembly's Revenue and Taxation Commmittee, Mori said a draft of the bill may be submitted by the March 15 deadline for this year's legislation.

Under Mori's plan, revenues generated from sales tax would be distributed throughout the county, much the same way gasoline and cigarette taxes are distributed.

Distribution would not be based solely on point of sale.

"This is an effort to develop equity and fairness," said Mori at a press conference on Friday.

Currently, Mori said sales tax revenues received in Hayward or Concord, for example, go directly to those cities, even though the monies have been generated by residents of other municipalities.

Mori said the new plan would prevent great losses in communities without regional shopping centers, and also prevent future big gains by communities with regional centers.

The valley, Mori noted, would profit from the plan. He acknowledged there would be some resistence in Hayward and Oakland.

The new distribution method would apply to any increase in sales tax after the bill goes into effect.

Half of the increase would be distributed to the place of origin and half to county communities on a per capita regional basis.

Mori discounted the suggestion the plan would result in a subsidy of unincorporated areas by larger municipalities.

"As it stands now, communities like Dublin get no benefit from sales tax except through the county," said Mori. He said the plan would develop equity among communities.

A draft bill is being drawn up by Revenue and Taxation Committee consultants. Mori said he hoped it would be submitted by the March 15 deadline, and if so, would be heard in committee by April 15.

"That will give us two and one - half months to get the bill through both houses," Mori explained.

Mori said the bill has "a fair chance" to be approved in committee.

Savings Bonds

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House of Representatives this week passed an amendment giving investors in U.S. Savings Bonds a guaranteed return of four per cent if bonds are for two months.

Under current law, persons who redeem Series E Savings Bonds within six months — an estimated one - third of all purchasers — get no interest at all.

Rep. Fortney (Pete) Stark introduced the amendment. He has been a critic of government efforts to promote Series E bonds, which he claimed are not as good an investment as depositing the funds in a bank.

Stark said his amendment is a "step toward greater equity for Savings Bond holders."

Zone 7 race

Zone 7 Board of Directors incumbents David Harris, Robert Becker, and Harlan Zodtner, each up for reelection on June 8, have received nomination papers, according to Zone 7 Chief Engineer Mun Mar.

Mar said he forwarded nomination papers to each of the incumbents as an "informational matter."

But the three directors are reported still undecided about whether to run again for the board.

Mar said he had received no other inquiries about the race.

But out - going Livermore City Councilman Donald Miller, in a Feb. 24 letter to his supporters, said, "I am considering running for the (zone) board in June, to join with directors (David) Harris, (Robert) Pearson, and (Richard) Ryon to change the (zone's) pro - Gelderville stance and protect citizen interests."

Miller said he would announce his decision soon.

Zone 7 is part of the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

Smoking ban

SACRAMENTO — Secretary of State March Fong Eu announced Monday that a new initiative campaign is underway to outlaw smoking in public places.

The petition drive must gather 312,404 signatures of registered voters by early July to qualify for the November ballot, according to Eu.

The anti - smoking initiative would provide fines for willful violators of anti - smoking bans in health, theatre, restaurant, business, elevator, transportation, educational, government and other facilities.

Specified smoking areas would be allowed, and local authorities would be permitted to impose more stringent regulations.

Many valley agencies, schools systems, and businesses have already imposed no smoking rules in public meeting places.

Pleasanton voters to pick three . . .

Jordan also proposed conducting city council meetings at various locations around the city in hopes of sparking more citizen input to the council.

Roger McLain favors construction of the Las Positas overcrossing and proposed a citizens committee to advise the council on priorities for capital improvements construction. He thinks that many capital improvement projects, especially park improvements, could be assisted by volunteer help.

On the issue of communication, McLain said he has attended more than 70 homeowners' association meetings since he joined the council. He thinks council members should have all of the alternatives possible given them by the staff, not just one recommendation for action.

McLain voted for permanent status for the Director of Public Safety a move which Brandes and Finch have criticized. (Herlihy also voted for it.) He acknowledged that the reorganization of fire personnel, made before he joined the council, will cost taxpayers more, but the service will be better, he said.

Ken Mercer, manager of the Fremont office of Pacific Telephone, is serving on the park and recreation commission. He agrees with the city's ultimate holding capacity of 76,000 and the 48,700 population benchmark in 1996. He would like to find a way to create low cost housing and if waiving city fees would help bring in the real thing, he would vote for it.

Mercer favors creation of a public safety committee to study the problems of guaranteeing adequate staffing for good fire and police coverage. He thinks the proposed Human Services Department may be a good thing, but it needs more study so the city will know local needs with which it will deal and staffing needs for it.

Redevelopment is a dead issue, he believes, but the city "must take a harsh look at what it wants the downtown to be."

Insurance needs
County call for bids

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — In an attempt to lower the county's annual $2 million insurance premium, the board of supervisors wants to open the county's policy to competitive bidding.

But the board is afraid things will be stirred up in the tightly knit insurance fraternity.

Faced with a seller's market of insurance underwriters who rapidly are shying away from government coverage, the county is willing to spend up to $15,000 to find out if and how it should open up bidding.

The current policy expires June 30, and the board must make up its mind by early April if it does not want to be shut out of coverage.

The board is faced with keeping its current agency, Schroeder, White and Johnson of Oakland, which has had the account for more than a quarter of a century; opening up the county's policy to competitive bidding by qualified agents, or inviting all brokers to bid on a policy.

The board recognizes the need for competition in spending taxpayers' money, but is afraid that several large houses bidding on the open insurance market will ward off prospective carriers.

Opening the policy to all agents will compound the problem by tying up county staff time in providing information to even the smallest, one-person office.

COMMITTEE TO ELECT ROGER McLAIN PLEASANTON CITY COUNCIL

Pleasanton rezones 32 acres to farming use

PLEASANTON — Thirty - two acres of ranchland was rezoned from a study district and single family home designation to agricultural zoning Monday night by the city council.

The land is in the vicinity of Abbie Street and Mirador Drive. The impetus to rezone the land came from the planning staff. The land had been in a study district, but its time had expired and the staff felt that agricultural zoning was the most realistic because it will be a long time before sewer connections are available for the parcel.

The council agreed with the staff's thinking with a couple of council members adding hopes that the redesignation of the land as agricultural will lower the owners' taxes. Councilman Roger McLain went so far as to say the city should notify the county tax assessor of the zoning change and try to follow up to see if the change results in lower taxes.

Mayor Ed Kinney wondered if notifying the assessor might put the spotlight on a property which perhaps has not been reassessed for a few years and would have a higher assessment as a result of the attention. "I don't know if we want to lay that on the property owner," said Kinney.

Councilman William Herlihy said the rezoning is the "first effort to rezone property in line with what it will be used for in the next few years." The city is undertaking a growth management plan trying to concentrate on growth developing from the core of development outward.

On another item, the council reluctantly voted to reapprove the budget of Congress of Valley Agencies. The city contributes $1,000 annually as part of the agency's $3,506 budget.

The vote was 4-1, with Kinney dissenting, though he did not say why. Some council members who voted to reaffirm the council's city's contribution were not very enthusiastic. Councilman William Herlihy said he hopes that COVA is not a debating agency, like its forerunner, the Valley Planning Committee.

Councilman Roger McLain suggested a new wrinkle for poll workers in future city elections. The city currently pays poll workers a little under $30 for their long day's work (supervisors get a little more than $30). McLain would like to see volunteers do the job instead.

It isn't so much the savings to the city (there are more than 30 precincts with four workers at each), but the thought that patriotic people would like a chance to do some work for American democracy, said McLain.

City Manager Bill Edgar said he would look into the idea, but thought state law may require paid poll workers. Mayor Ed Kinney thought that it could mean a savings which would help save a small project the city might not be able to fund otherwise.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire thought the hours were long for work without compensation. She noted the money was important to the senior citizens and housewives who have signed up for the jobs.

Councilman William Herlihy asked for bicycle curb cuts and a crosswalk to help safety at the Valley Avenue - Greenwood Road intersection. LeClaire was enthusiastic about it. The item arose at midnight so Philcox said he will think about it before the next meeting.

Finch reveals campaign expenses

PLEASANTON — City council candidate Gene Finch received $1,036 in contributions prior to Jan. 19, according to records at city hall.

Finch filed some of his information a day after the deadline for the second round of campaign contribution reports and as a result The Times was unable to include Finch in a previous story on contributions.

Finch's records show that two people have contributed more than $50 to his campaign. They are Mary Mullins, listed as a San Ramon housewife, and Hal Coburn of Pleasanton, listed as self-employed at 739 Main Street.

Some $939 of Finch's funds were cash donations, the rest were volunteered services or goods. He reported his expenses to date as $576.

Are you one that wanted to purchase the Pleasanton Pictorial Bicentennial Book and didn't get around to doing so because you were too busy with the holidays? If so, you are in luck as a few editions of the book at $3.95 per copy are still available.

The 7-3/4 by 10-1/2 inch book, two-color cover book will be totally free from advertising and will include seven sections commemorating our country's 200th birthday. The sections will include coverage of places, people, and organizations.

The book, being published by Josten - American Yearbook Company, will not be available until June, however the Pleasanton Heritage Committee under the auspices of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission, is making the book available for advance purchase by reservations.

Interested persons are asked to fill out the coupon on this page with a check or money order to cover the costs of books ordered and mail to the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission, P. O. Box 252 or drop off the coupon at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce office, 100 Neal Street. Sage Books, 4307 Valley Ave.; Gingham Corner, Neal and Main Street and the Chamber office are also handling pre - sales of the book.

A special edition of the book which will be a hard cover will go on sale at an announced place and time. Sale of the 100 books at $25 per copy will be on "first come first serve" basis. There will be a limit of two copies per person. Estimated date of March 14 has been established for the completion of the hard bound cover.

Further information may be obtained by calling 846-3054.

Lilly of the Valley

There is nothing like beginning a new year by sleeping the first month away. Kinda makes you feel like Rip Van Winkle! That's the sensation I presently have.

I guess, at one time or other in a person's life, those two little words, "thank you" hardly seem appropriate or enough to show gratitude. I find myself in that situation now.

During my recent recovery from surgery, it was wonderful to hear from so many of you and all the "best wishes" were greatly appreciated. Words cannot express the feeling of thankfulness. I feel very fortunate having so many friends.

I cannot limit my "thank you" to just friends. I owe a lot to my wonderful, well qualified doctor who extended the best services obtainable to a patient. An ordeal an be made so much more fearless when it is handled in a professional, knowledgeable way such as he displays.

One wonders why a doctor more honest than the day is long, thoroughly dedicated to his job and truely concerned for his patients should have to be burdened with the malpractice business. I feel if anything happened to a patient of this doctor of which he had no control, he would feel worse than those involved with the situation. If ever there was a physician you wish you could make duplicate copies of, I'd say, he is it.

Perhaps another person who also deserves a "thank you" yet patients don't even consider, is the wife and family of this professional man. How many times does that phone ring when the entire plans for an evening have to be re - arranged. The dedicated doctor knows exactly where he is going and what he will have to do. What about the family?

A doctor's wife has got to be a "special" kind of person to understand and tolerate the circumstance she faces daily. To carry the load and perhaps comfort a disappointed member of the family because "dad" can't be there is not an easy task.

The staff of Valley Memorial with whom I came in contact were outstanding in their services. They certainly make Valley the fine hospital it is, contrary to beliefs from some people.

A compatible roommate, Florence Gordon of Livermore, made for a pleasant stay at the hospital also. We became hot or cold at the same time, had the same feeling about television, enjoyed watching the nurses from our room and even had the same temperatures and blood pressure on some days. How's that for compatibility! Yes, we had the same surgery and same doctor too.

On the subject of hospitals, it was most upsetting to one recuperating as a patient from that establishment to read the attitudes taken by a few of the people running for the hospital board.

"Livermore first" was a bit too much to swallow. If Livermore patiences only supported that hospital, I doubt that V.M. would be in existence today.

One gets pretty tired of Livermore's childish attitude when it comes to valley wide benefits — "What's ours is OURS and what's YOURS is our," now you go solve your problems.

I can readily understand why that Livermore stationed editor held a "pet rock contest." Lord knows their heads over in that area have got to be full of rocks by the way they act.

A thought on the malpractice business. Are doctors creating their own problems? Sometimes I get the feeling if the doctors would have the fortitude to put those doctors who have been sued on a certain list, rather than defending them, we might be able to weed out the bad doctors and have less problems. True, not all suits are because of the doctor, however, like in any profession, there are some bad ones.

Enough of the medical bit. It's good to be back to work (feeling great) but, on to bigger and better stories And smile! I may be snapping your picture sooner than you think.!!

Sup. Murphy holds swing vote on crime act

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Official endorsement of the proposed "Youthful Violent Offenders Act" that would send 16- and 17-year-olds through adult court and on to prison hinges on valley supervisor John Murphy.

After heated debate between supervisors Charles Santana (Hayward) and Tom Bates (Oakland), the board split 2-2 with Murphy abstaining pending further study of the legislation.

The act would require that 16- and 17-year-olds charged with crimes ranging from murder, rape and robbery to any felony committed against the elderly be tried by superior court judges and sentenced to State prison.

It would preclude probationary hearings, suspended sentences and commitment to the California Youth Authority.

The proposal was written by members of the county district attorney's office and endorsed by the grand jury. It was introduced in Sacramento by Assemblyman Alister McAlister (D-San Jose).

"In the event I can get some input from the probationary department and court, I can change my vote," said Murphy. He said he has been told the bill's ramifications "are more than the arguments presented today."

The real row was between Santana and Bates.

"Right now we have a system that evidently isn't working," charged the Hayward supervisor. "The purpose of this bill is that if you're found guilty of murder, you won't be put up for six months then turned loose. You'll get a minimum two years."

"How is this law going to stop the violence?," asked Bates. "Where does the present system break down? There already are laws on the books, but people are reacting emotionally to a couple of incidents."

"This is not an emotional issue," Santana shouted back. "Some people have been using the grand jury lately," he said in apparent reference to the Bates' initiated investigation of Murphy's involvement in the East County Government Center site purchase. "If you want to know where the system is breaking down, ask the grand jury to investigate the county probation department."

While board chairman Fred Cooper sided with Bates in claiming prison would not solve the problem, fellow supervisor Joseph Bort joined Santana.

"I'm in favor of some action," said Bort, "but that doesn't mean I approve of every item and sentence of the bill."

Murphy said he was still looking into ramifications of the bill, but felt he could go along with Bort and Santana as long as the motion included Bort's amendment.

"We usually have some input from people with knowledge and experience in things," said Murphy, but this one came before the board "in a vacuum."

"I understand there are other bills in the (legislative) hopper that may be more palatable.

"There is something that should be done," he added emphatically, but hesitated on giving carte blance to McAlister's bill as written.

New VMH directors welcomed

LIVERMORE — "We recognize that you bring forth a message from the voters and we respect it," said newy - selected Valley Memorial Hospital Board president Ted Fairfield as he welcomed new directors James Nissen and Eric Wente to the board Thursday night.

Nissen and Wente had campaigned to reexamine building a second hospital facility in Pleasanton. They defeated VMH board nominees who had favored a second facility.

And in their first official acts as directors, Nissen and Wente joined the rest of the board in accepting the nominating committee's recommendations of Ted Fairfield for president, Joseph Sladky for vice president, and Dagmar Fulton as secretary - treasurer.

Fairfield warned the two new member directors it would "take a while for you to grasp the problems and challenges facing the board."

He said if Wente and Nissen promised "not to shoot from the hip," the directors would listen carefully to their opinions.

Fairfield said there would be "no pride of authorship" on plans for the second facility, and said he welcomed scrutiny of them.

Fairfield set forth three goals to be accomplished during his tenure as president:

- Better communication between the board and the VMH Association membership. This can be accomplished, he said, through the media, direct mailings to association members, and condtcting less business in executive session.
- Clarification of the distinction between the board and the Hhospital administration.
- Formalization of board policy. Fairfield recommended appointing a special committee to reexamine the election process set forth in the corporate by - laws.

Physician to speak on Guatemalan visit

DUBLIN— Doctor Charles A. Kane, San Ramon physician, will be the keynote speaker at St. Raymond's annual Sacrificial Meal, Sunday, 6 p.m. in the church hall, Shannon and San Ramon Roads in Dublin.

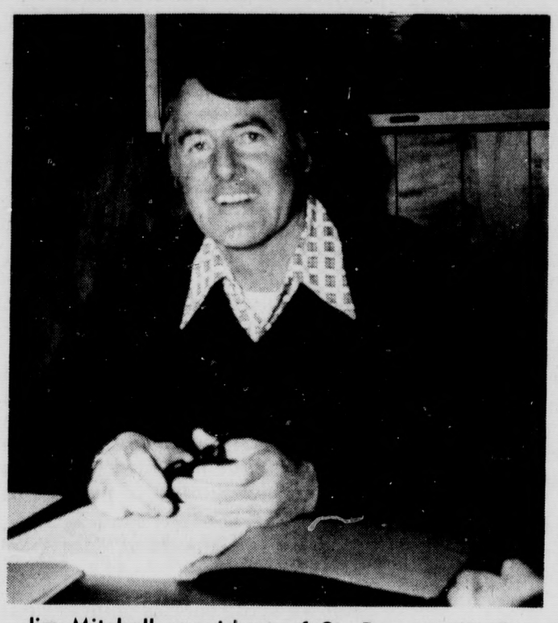
Doctor Kane will show slides and recount his experiences while visiting areas devastated by the Guatemalan earthquake. His primary mission was to investigate the effects of the quake on St. Raymond's "sister parish" in Chimaltenango. He found that the earthquake had left 13,200 dead and 31,000 injured in the province of Chimaltenango.

While there he also visited Walnut Creek's sister city, Guatemala City with a population of 1.5 million which suffered the loss of 3,240 people with 16,000 injured.

Guezatenango, Livermore's sister city reported 14 dead and 228 injured. Dr. Kane will also be speaking to the people of Livermore as a guest speaker of the next meeting of the Sister City Organization, Thursday, March 4 at 8 p.m. in the Livermore Library.

The public is invited to attend either meeting. The Sacrificial Meal at St. Raymond's is a simple soup and bread meal held annually by the parish as a preparation for the Lenten Season which begins with Ash Wednesday, March 3. A donation of $5 per family and $3 a couple is asked. This money is turned over to the St. Vincent de Paul Society which administers all of the parish's aid to the needy. For more information, call 828-2460.

For more information about the meeting in Livermore, you are asked to call Pat Lundberg, 447-7155.



Jim Mitchell, president of St. Raymond's St Vincent de Paul Council will chairman this years Sacrificial Meal.

Spaghetti for Shrove Tuesday

PLEASANTON— St. Clare's Episcopal Church will have a spaghetti dinner served by the junior and senior high groups at the church on Shrove Tuesday, March 2, from 5:30 until 8 p.m. All are invited to come.

On Ash Wednesday, March 3, at 7 p.m., the Rev. William A. Smith will celebrate Holy Eucharist from the Book of Trial Liturgy, first service, followed by the distribution of ashes.

There will be a service of Holy Eucharist on Sunday at the 10 a.m. family service. Bob Moore, St. Clare's seminarian, will give the sermon. Holy Communion from the Book of Common Prayer is regularly scheduled at 8 a.m. at St. Clare's.

Bethany

LIVERMORE— Pastor Hubert Garland will bring a message on "His Hour Had Come," at the 11 a.m. service at Bethany Baptist Church. The scripture reference is John 12:20-36. At the 6:30 p.m. service his subject is "Man's Place In History."

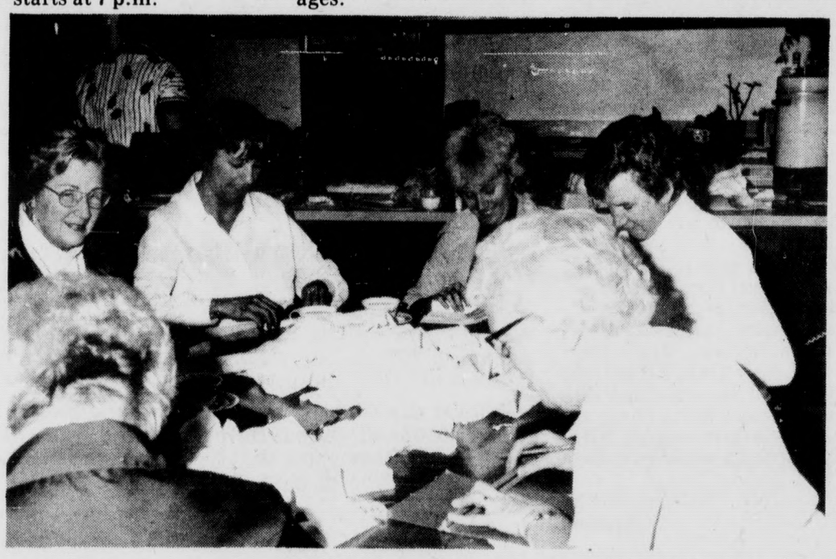
Sunday School for all ages is at 9:45 a.m.

Wednesday prayer meeting and Bible study starts at 7 p.m.

Valley Community

PLEASANTON— As Valley Community Church continues in the study of the Old Testament and its influence on the Christian life they move into Numbers Chapters 13 and 14. Pastor Leron Heath will share God's message, "The People of the Future."

Valley Community Church meets each Sunday morning in the multipurpose room of the Amador Valley High School at 10 a.m. for worship, 10:30 for Junior Church and 11 a.m. for Bible classes for all ages.



Court St. Raymond No. 2057 of the Catholic Daughters of America gave an immediate response to the call for emergency aid for the victims of the Guatemalan earthquake. Here they are gathered at Regent Hazel Lynch's home making and rolling bandages to be distributed by the Catholic Mission Relief services.

Holy Cross marks Ash Wednesday

LIVERMORE— Duplicate family worship services will be held Sunday morning at Holy Cross Lutheran Church at 8:30 and 11 a.m. The theme of the message will be "A Glimpse of All that We Will Be." Special offerings for the Emergency Fund Center and the LCA/World Hunger Appeal will be received by Pastor Milton C. Johnson and Intern Alan Rider.

A sacrificial luncheon, sponsored by the Lutheran Church woman, will be the special Ash Wednesday observance at 12 noon.

The mid - week Lenten series will begin that evening at 7:30 p.m. The theme for these Wednesday evening experiences is "The Passion of Jesus." These informal, 45 minute sessions will include Bible studies based on Mark's Gospel. They will be family centered involving children as well as adults. The Holy Communion will be celebrated in the Ash Wednesday ression.

Crab feed

PLEASANTON— The sixth annual crab feed sponsored by the St. Augustine's social committee will be held Saturday evening, March 13 in the CCD Hall located next to the church at 900 East Angela St.

Doors will be open at 7 p.m. with no-host cocktails. Tickets are selling for $8 per person which includes all the crab you can eat, buttered french bread, two different kinds of salads and olives. The Michael Carino Band will play for your dancing pleasure.

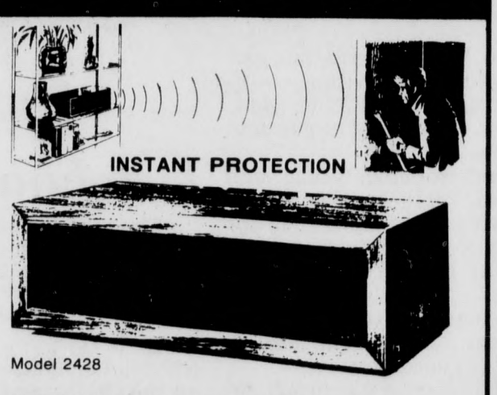
THE BURGLAR ALARM WITH EXTRA BRAIN POWER

Master Lock

ULTRASON-X INTRUSION ALARM

FOR HOME OR BUSINESS

Ultrason-X protects against burglars with inaudible ultrasonic waves. Any intrusion in the area under surveillance turns on lights (if desired), and seconds later, sets off a loud alarm. Ultrason-X not only detects motion — it knows an intruder when it spots one. "Smart circuits" ignore random movements such as swaying drapes, air currents from ventilators, the vibrations of passing trucks, sonic booms, ringing telephones. You get high reliability. More powerful protection. Master Lock quality throughout. Attractive walnut grain finished cabinet houses both the detector and alarm.



INSTANT PROTECTION

Model 2428

- EASY INSTALLATION — plug in Ultrason-X like a radio, aim and you're done.
- POWERFUL 30-FOOT RANGE — designed to compensate for room differences without cutting down coverage.
- SELF-SILENCING — alarm shuts off automatically after 3 minutes; resets itself for intrusion detection.
- CONVENIENT ENTRY AND EXIT — automatic delay allows you time to enter or leave protected area without triggering alarm.

Choice of 3 Satellite Alarms...no wiring...simply plug-in

About those 'endorsements'

"Where do newspapers get the right to tell us how to vote?"

Good question. And if that is what a newspaper attempts to do, then it is out of line. There is historic precedent for the "endorsements" offered readers by the print media, a practice more recently adopted by radio and even some tv stations. We suppose it is based on the media's "expertise" gained in prolonged, close scrutiny of the candidates and the issues.

The Times prefers to approach this role as a "recommendation," and little else. We interviewed all of the candidates, studied the issues, and then sat down with the reporter covering that beat to come up with our choice.

This year the selection is particularly broad, as voters approaching Tuesday's ballot are finding out. The "no growth" and "developer oriented" labels of past elections are no longer relevant. Today's public servitude looks more to resolution of real problems, rather than brave promises for the glorious future.

The result, admittedly, is a conflicting mix of candidates. We determined that Linda Jeffery might be the best of that impressive field in Murray School District, even though Mrs. Jeffery is the only outspoken critic of a Murray Bond Issue — an issue that The Times supports. We respect Mrs. Jeffery for her willingness to speak out, even while we disagree with her on this one issue. There will be a lot more tests along the way, and the people are best served by a lively difference of opinion.

In Livermore, we determined that Marshall Kamena is the best of that field, a view shared by many. But this newspaper stood alone in suggesting either Rich Buckley or Glen Dahlbacka as a choice for that other council vacancy, even though Mr. Buckley and Mr. Dahlbacka are hardly from the same mold. Frankly, we think the office will make the man, as long as the man has something to offer at the outset.

Our position with the three Pleasanton council vacancies follows that same reasoning. We believe Wm. Herlihy and Ken Mercer are the best of that field for many reasons, most of them dealing with leadership, responsibility and consistency.

For that third vacancy, we opt for either Roger McLain, the proven community servant, or Frank Brandes, an activist who would probably shake things up. It's a question of council chemistry.

Neither do the two money issues — a tax override in Livermore and a bond issue in Murray District — offer an easy choice, this time. These two measures are only the first of many that local communities must face in upcoming months and years. You get the service, but you must also pay the cost. The hard choice is left to the taxpaying-voter, which is, after all, where the buck always stops.

Bring back April

The one final thought we have on this March 2 election is that it's too damned soon!

We forget what legislative wisdom moved municipal elections back from the traditional "first Tuesday in April" to a similar date in March. All we know is that the time remaining between the end-of-year festivities and the first Tuesday in March simply isn't enough to allow candidates to tell their story, debate a little, and give voters a chance to know the participants.

Accepting that most campaign periods in this country are far too long, we still contend that the 59 days which now bracket most city council elections is far too brief. When school tax measures are added to that muni ballot (another legislative mandate) then the campaign period seems even tighter.

Charter cities can still choose their own election date, and are opting mostly for an April ballot. It is only us General Law cities that must cram our election process through the first two months of the year. Somebody should change that law.

The Hunter family

There appears on this page a letter commending all those Valley residents who responded with contributions and labor to the Guatemalan earthquake disaster. It proved "we do have the strength to respond to a need," the letter writer suggests.

It is sometimes more difficult to respond to a crisis in another neighborhood, or another part of the Valley. That is the challenge we all face with the two surviving members of the Hunter family.

When fire destroyed the Hunter home in Pleasanton Meadows, it took also the lives of that family's father and mother. Two children are left to somehow make a life for themselves, assisted by an Uncle who has seven cyildren of his own.

Here is the kind of need that calls upon all of us for response. On Sunday afternoon, at St. Augustine's Social Hall in Pleasanton, there will be opportunity to assist the Hunter family, and to also enjoy a Mexican Fiesta being staged as a benefit for that one need.

From 1 p.m. until 7 p.m. there will be games, Mexican dancing and refreshments. It is the kind of "small town thing" we used to do to help each other. It is worth reviving here, just as it is worth supporting also in more distant lands.

FOCUS/Bonds and taxes

The next ballot!

Heretofore unmentioned circumstances make it increasingly vital that the $1 million bond issue on the Murray School District ballot Tuesday be approved.

Murray trustees notified the county earlier this month of an intention to put the same bond issue on the June 8 ballot if it fails to gain a two-thirds "yes" vote two days hence.

Of course, its passage would signal board action to remove any such issue from the June ballot. Trustees, in fact, could even take it off the June ballot if it fails.

But the plan now is to come back again in June if the necessary 66⅔s is not achieved Tuesday.

The result would put considerable pressure on the Amador Valley Joint High School District in as it attempts to pass a tax revenue limit increase measure, now firmed for the June 8 ballot.

Also, the Pleasanton Joint School District has a similar measure, asking for an 81 cent increase over a period of two years, on the June ballot.

The districts are going to find it difficult enough passing tax or bond measures without having the spectre of neighboring or overlapping districts (Murray and Amador) putting the pinch on taxpayers at the same time.

Whether one district (Murray) having a bond now and two others a tax measure three months hence is any less difficult may be open to debate.

But for those in the Murray AND Amador districts, the sight of a 62-cent tax proposal (over three years) and a $1 million bond (again!) on the same ballot is going to turn off even the most sympathetic of taxpaying parents.

We have not gone into the facts and figures of the Amador and Pleasanton measures enough to get a preliminary "reading" on whether they deserve support or should be defeated.

But we have received a couple of opinions on the Amador measure already and both are an angry "NO" — no more Tax monies.

One group stating this feeling, albeit small, has labeled itself the "Concerned Citizens of Dublin."

Though formed to try and find a solution to alleged loitering and vandalism of property around Dublin High School, the group may be branching out to explore the total problems of the community.

What they've told Dr. Bruce Newlin, superintendent of the Amador district, is that "you'll not get our support for any tax measures until something is done about our problems."

Causes such as these have a habit of drawing in the total community — especially around election time.

Though the committee has been hampered by the loss of Dr. Donald Williams during the last week of the campaign, the supporters of the bond issue have managed to reach a considerable number of persons in the waning days.

Whether they've convinced enoughvoters to cast a "yes" vote is something else.

But we bring out this point of what the June ballot could look like (not to mention the continuing inflation) as something that should be considered before going to the polls.

Letters to the Times

Rutter's views

Editor, The Times:

Since you place, in full, all of the other candidates answers to your question letter we had received early in the month, I feel you have really taken unfair advantage of me. Since the time is so short until the March 2 election and there are only the two more candidates nights coming up, it is rather biased on your part to have only one answer that I gave in today's paper.

I realize you have space limits but you should have begun the series sooner rather than to appear to ignore one candidate.

It's unfortunate that I was not more fairly treated in today's paper with the final candidates night being the same day.

Dawn E. Rutter
Dublin

(We apologized to Murray candidate Rutter for our mechanical goof, and carried her complete answers in the next day's Times. — Editor).

Guatemala aided

Editor, The Time:

On behalf of the Sister City Organization, I would like to thank so many people for their generosity in the wake of the Guatemalan disaster. First, my deepest gratitude goes to the Press, for the excellent coverage during our efforts to collect desperately needed items for the quake victims.

Secondly, our thanks to Mayor Futch for his personal efforts and support, to the City of Livermore for its generous donation from the city's field hospital supplies, and to Valley Memorial Hospital for its large gift of medical provisions.

A thank you also the the Latin - American Services Organization (LASO) for the use of its offices as a collection point and storage center. LASO volunteers took phone messages for us and assisted with the handling of incoming materials.

... to the hundreds of people (Valleywide) who donated an overwhelming amount of needed supplies, most in excellent condition — and to those volunteers, who donated their time to sort, pack, and roll bandages. The students at Valley View School in Pleasanton worked diligently for two weeks and collected two and a half pick-up loads of priority items. The Valley Christian Center in Dublin collected an equally impressive amount ...

... Mr. John Doggett of Pleasanton ... spent countless hours on his radio awaiting some word from "home" for each of our exchange students.

This experience has taught me one thing ... Livermore (indeed, the whole valley) does have a strength that surfaces on a moment's notice when there is a clear need.

Until we receive further word from our Sister City, our collection here is essentially ended — this is not to say it won't be picked up again if deemed necessary.

Candidate's team

Editor, The Times:

With the campaign drawing to a close, I want to express my thanks to all who have contributed to my campaign for re-election.

My special thanks goes to Dick Bota, Treasurer and Official Conscience; Larry and Carol Backert, signs and fund - raising; Linda Cooley, coffees and telephone; and to Pat Stevens, Myrna Rakstad, Randy and Irene Kinst, Ed and Lee Ann McFadden, Bill Jamieson and Rex Heinbaugh for precinct work. I have relied very heavily on their support. Without them, my campaign would have been difficult.

William Herlihy

round the town

He was, quite frankly, my kind of man.

A controversial character who would give you the shirt off his back, and then give you hell for wearing a tie that clashed. The now generation had a tough time understanding John Marshall, simply because John Marshall came from a different time, another world.

Never satisfied with one career, John took on challenges like most of us turn on television. With great freedom of choice, and reckless abandon. And, as far as I know, he never looked back.

"Now this is the way I thought you might like to do it." It was a typical Marshallism that started out the conversation dealing with yet another of those blessed charity events at Villa del Sole. John willingly gave his home, but just as willingly handed out advice. You got one with the other.

"I really don't understand him" one tearful committee chairperson once told me after a particularly frustrating session with John Marshall. Don't worry, I assured her, no one has ever really understood John Marshall. You just stand there in awe and wonder.

Edith Marshall was of course the exception. Outsiders rarely knew where she stood either, particularly vis-a-vis her husband. But Edith never had any doubts.

Always the faithful wife, ever the helpful mate, Edith Marshall is a tower of talent in her own right. John got the ideas. Edith made them work.

And work was the foundation of their partnership, and their love. I have never known too people so dedicated to hard labor. The terribly intricate, terribly time-consuming things they did to their home were only incidentally something to share with others. I have always suspected that John and Edith would have undertaken that same endless chain of tasks, even though they never intended to show the result to another living soul.

Fortunately, they liked to share. Not as you and I share, with the occasional dinner party, the twice-a-summer barbecue. The Marshalls lined up such events with all the expertise of a military movement. Orchestra (usually donated), caterer, program and cleanup. Nothing escaped their attention. And when you consider that they had maybe 20 such events in their home every year, each attracting from 100 to 800 guests, it makes a body shudder. And marvel.

I hope you don't think all this is the prelude to nominating John Marhsall to sainthood. Heaven, forbid! — and it would. Saintliness was not one of John's attributes. But then again, which one among us?

It's like I say. John was the kind of guy you could identify with. Particularly if you can remember when Phoebe Apperson Hearst ran much of this Valley, and much of this State. When Sunday morning radio broadcasts were the week's top entertainment. And when folks thought nothing of working very hard until they were 60, and then starting up a brand new career, just to stay active.

John Marshall may not be the last of his breed. But, like all endangered species, we have to take note of them, one by one.

At the other end of the age gap, I hope you all took note of Boy Scout Troop 943's determination to get the nation's Tricentennial off on the right foot. The youngsters figure the year 2076 will be something worth remembering.

Not that you and I figure on being around to celebrate America's 300th. That's just the point. Troop 943 wants to invest in 2076 simply because they don't know who'll be around to run things. So they're out to raise $1000 in 1976. Salt it away until 2076.

"But by then our $1000 will have grown to about $1 million." Very astute.

Some spoil-sport is bound to suggest that "the way things are going a body will need one million dollars in 2076 to buy what one thousand dollars handled in 1976." But that's beside the point.

What really counts is that there is somebody in this blessed land who has faith the United States of America will somehow survive until 2076. Given the events of recent past, I think that's showing real courage.

It's the kind of thing John Marshall might have done, while looking forward to the next 100 years.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

I remembered old Fitz again on Friday while listening to a wild tale from a frightened young man who lives in this dehydrated valley and thought that for all his troubles he was lucky he did not wind up in the same mess as Jess Genero, another young man who was short on guts and long on bravado.

There had been five of them that night in 1945, three young men, old Fitz and Sonny Collins, a middle aged man whose credentials and experience in burglary were considerable.

Youngest of them all was Jess Genero, a kid from the Santa Clara Valley just out of his teens with a proclivity for big talk which he used to tighten a noose of circumstance around his neck and lead him into this first foray into the world of felons.

He leaned back in the seat of Collins' ancient sedan and breathed a sigh of relief when the home of the mark they had chosen for burglary was brightly lit and full of people.

Collins cursed and old Fitz snarled something about young punks who didn't know how to case a place and they drove off, drifting aimlessly through the peninsula towns, searching for a place to burglarize and not finding one.

Eventually they reached the city limits of San Francisco and it was then Fitz got his big idea and outlined it to his companions.

"It'll be a cinch and the guy can't yell cop because it's an after hours joint and against the law," he explained.

He paused and looked over his companions. Collins was a burglar, a sneak thief, non violent and pudgy, a little ring of sweat breaking out on his brow while he absorbed Old Fitz' plan.

"Of course you've got to have the guts to pull a heist," Fitz continued. "None of this sneaking in second story windows of houses where people are on vacation. We walk right in and take their money."

"I ain't no heist man, Fitz," Collins objected "I don't like any rough stuff. You point a gun at a guy and sooner or later you shoot it and then you wind up in that little green room in Que. I don't need any of that."

But old Fitz persisted and before long the five of them were driving toward an after hours booze dispensary on San Francisco's Laguna Street where a man named Luigi Cassero entertained the late trade.

A tight knot of fear gathered in young Jess Genero's stomach while the old car rolled over the San Francisco hills and it was not helped any when they reached the Laguna Street address and old Fitz handed the kid a gun.

"You know how to use it, kid?" old Fitz inquired.

"Yep," Genero grunted, having a hard time getting the words out of a mouth full of cotton.

"We'll leave Collins in the car," Fitz decided. "He can be the wheelman. He ain't got no guts and would muff the job anyway."

So Fitz and Genero and two other young men entered that second floor speakeasy and might have escaped scot free with all the money had not an off duty cop, a sergeant named Kerr, stopped by for a drink on the way home from the swing shift.

Kerr saw the guns and reacted with spontaneous courage which netted him a knot on the head, a mild concussion and instant unconsciousness.

Genero just reacted. His reaction was to pull the trigger of the gun which was aimed directly at the heart of Luigi Cassero and that was thirty as they said in the old days, for the old man.

All of which doesn't mean very much, I suppose. Except that something almost exactly like that came near to happening at a little joint in the valley's backwoods last December. Had it happened the young man with whom I talked Friday would have faced at best a long prison term and lifetime parole, as Genero does today.

I thought about that and how it could be your kid or mine or almost anyone's if we do not guide them correctly into life on this tired old globe. And then I thought I would pass the story of old Fitz along.

It's something to think about.

"So you know old Fitz? He's really a good guy you know."

Any time I visit a prison you can safely wager your sweet Post Toasties I will emerge depressed and weary having absorbed just enough of the atmosphere of "the Joint" to have the multiple tragedies those places house to weigh down my mind with despair and anguish.

That day in 1950 was no exception, worse than most, perhaps because of all of California's penitentiaries Repressa is the most grim, perched, as it is, on the banks of the American River where the stream becomes a wild torrent as it slashes through a mountain gorge, dour grey walls resembling a medieval warlord's fortress.

The saloon was old and tired as the town of Folsom was in those days and we leaned against the scarred plank sipping cold beer, the prison athletic director trying to drown the heat of the summer day which seeped damply through the back of his shirt, I to dull the edge of sadness which had joined me while I wandered among those hopeless men who inhabit the cells behind those bleak walls.

Yes, I knew old Fitz, you can bet I knew old Fitz, I thought and wondered how any employe of a correctional institution could call the most evil man I had ever met a "good guy."

Then I thought about old Fitz and the athletic director about that weird escapade in 1945 which had eventually led to the old heist man's second murder conviction.

We have your best interest at heart.

School's the thing

"The most important consideration is the education of the students who will attend the new school."

That is the way a Bond Election Committee sums up the challenge facing voters throughout the Murray Elementary District next Tuesday. The facts and figures don't mean much, this citizens committee says, if the students can't be housed.

"All students in the intermediate grades deserve the same range and scope in program." Murray District has long needed a second intermediate school to meet that need, but it is a service too long denied that community, this panel contends.

The committee points out that 26 temporary buildings are now in use as classrooms throughout the district, which comprises the northwestern portion of Pleasanton and all of Dublin.

Defeat of Tuesday's bond issue will result in more temporary buildings, a move that is not desirable, nor economical, the committee contends.

"If the quality of the educational program to the students is the real issue, the decision on how to vote is not difficult to make," this panel of citizens contend.

The Murray District bond issue would provide a new school in the Silvergate area to house 600 7th and 8th grade students.

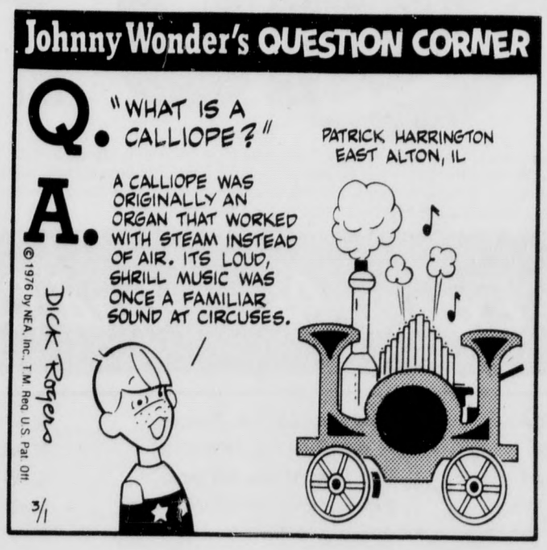
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHAT IS A CALLIOPE?"
A. A CALLIOPE WAS ORIGINALLY AN ORGAN THAT WORKED WITH STEAM INSTEAD OF AIR. ITS LOUD, SHRILL MUSIC WAS ONCE A FAMILIAR SOUND AT CIRCUSES.

The loud music of the calliope was once a familiar sound at circuses in America.

The calliope (pronounced kuh LIE oh pee) is a kind of organ that works with steam instead of air. It consists of a series of whistles connected to a steam boiler. When the keys on the keyboard are pressed, valves open and release steam into the whistles, which produce loud, shrill notes.

The first calliope was made in Wooster, Mass., in 1855. The inventor built it as a powerful call to Sunday worship, but it was soon being played on showboats and in carnivals and circuses all over the country. The calliope was traditionally placed at the end of the circus parade, pulled on a fancy, horse-drawn wagon.

With its calliope blaring, the colorful circus parade would march down the main street, telling everyone the circus had come to town.

Smaller calliopes played by compressed air are still used in some carnival merry-go-rounds today.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Dugan takes section title

Kevin Dugan of Dublin took the North Coast Section Wrestling 168 - pound crown by defeating Rocky Harrison of Eureka, 3-1 last night at Granada High School.

Dugan, with the impressive victory now heads for the state meet with a 41-0-1 record.

Mark Voegeli of San Ramon also advanced by finishing second in the 157 - pound division, losing to Rick Worel.

Dugan drove to the championship by beating Harry Ells' Fred Rincon in his first match, 7-2. After a tight 3-1 decision over suprising Gary Townsend of Casa Grande, Dugan pinned Northgate's Pat Wallace at 1:24 of round two in the semi-finals to advance to the finals.

Only three EBAL wrestlers advanced to the state meet next week in Pomona: Voegeli, Dugan and Ron Freeman of Granada.

The championship matches opened up with American's Mike Rodriguez taking a 6-1 decision over Steve Roderk of Eureka in the 98-pound division.

Antonio Lopez of Ukiah followed up in the 106-pound class with a suprising 13-3 win over Herbert Campbell of Harry Ells.

In the 115-pound class, Bruce Kawabata of San Lorenzo rolled to a 6-1 victory over Newark's Mike Barnett. Kawabata defeated Logan's Jerry Young and Del Norte's John Gensaw before beating Steve Ramos of San Ramon in the semi-finals, 5-3.

Ron Brennan of Eureka, Randy Brown of Miramonte and Rocco Cardinalli of Pacifica all rolled to victories in the 123, 130 and 136 pound weight classes, respectively.

The EBAL started out the competition with 18 wrestlers eligible but that number quickly lessened as the tournament progessed.

The day's biggest disappointment came when Steve Jaeger of Granada was upset in his first match by unheralded Bob Worthington of Acalanes, 6-3 in overtime. Amador's Bennie Lafever, expected to place in the 178-pound division, also lost an overtime decision to Dave Renner of Concord, 7-2.

Among the biggest suprises of the day for the EBAL included Livermore's Naish Piazza, a vastly improved 130-pounder who squeaked to victory in his first two matches. The Poke sophomore defeated Fortuna's Collin Kinser and Region 111 champ Gene Campbell of Tennyson before dropping a tough 9-2 decision to eventual finalist Strock in the semi-finals.

Amador's 98-pounder Steve Potts, after winning his first match by a pin, lost a close 7-5 quarter-final decision to Roderick, who battled with Rodriguez in the finals.

In the 106-pound division Granada's Brett Nadeau lost his first match to tough Warren Turnage of Pacifica by a 5-4 count. San Ramon's Mike Sitts lost to Kimball in the quarter-finals by a 13-5 score, but stayed alive in the race for third place.

Steve Ramos almost gave San Ramon a finalist in the 115-pound division. Ramos rolled to easy 7-1 and 5-1 victories in his first two matches but lost to Kawabata in the semi-finals, 5-3.

Livermore's Ray Jenkins, third place finisher in last week's Region 11 meet, failed to make the finals because of a fluke 6-4 loss to eventual finalist Lehmkuhl in the 136-pound division.

Voegeli reached the finals by pinning Bill Worthington of Acalanes and smarhing Vintages' Don Hurst and Region 111 champ Bob Cardenas 15-0 and 8-2, respectively. Monte Vista's Kurt Billingsley, Voegeli's arch rival, failed to qualify by losing to Woreo 5-3 in the quarter finals.

Ron Freeman was awesome in the 194-pound division ripping through his first three opponents with ease. He pinned Joe Contrares of Alhambra, defeated Keith Pedscleaux of Richmond, 17-2 and smashed Tim McDonald of College Park, 18-4. Freeman hocked horns with tough Bruce Kopitar of Pacifica in the finals.

Dunbar competes today

Diane Dunbar of Foothill High School will give an exhibition at a men's gymnastics meet between the United States and Romania at 2 p.m. today at Harmon Gym on the University of California campus in Berkeley.

Also competing in the exhibition will be Romania's 14-year old female star Nadia Comaneci.

Comaneci was outstanding last night in Tucson as she scored 9.90, 9.85 and 9.75 in exercises for the Romania team.

The top United States woman performer was Kathy Howard of Oklahoma who had a 9.80 in the floor exercise and a 9.70 on the balance beam.

Dunbar competed in a club meet in Fresno yesterday.

LL sign-ups

Late sign-ups and tryouts for Dublin Little League's Majors will be held from 1 to 3 this afternoon at Kodak Field.

Any youngster residing in Dublin between the ages of 8 to 15 may sign up at this time. This is the last chance for the 1976 season.

Outstanding field set for NCS cage tourney

With promises of a extremely well-balanced field the North Coast Section's second annual 3-A basketball playoffs began Wednesday at four different sites.

Amador is the EBAL representative in the NCS tourney for the second straight season.

There will be four regional games Wednesday with the semi-finals and finals coming on Friday and Saturday.

The semi-finals and finals will be held at Cal-State Hayward. Dublin High School is one of the sites for the regions. Other sites are Redwood High in Marin County, Ohlone College and Northgate High in Walnut Creek.

The section tournament is the end of the line for area basketball teams as the section voted against sending the champion to the Tournament of Champions in Oakland March 11-13.

As of right now Amador will host the region game in Dublin. Other hosting leages are the Marin County Athletic League, the Diablo Valley Athletic League and the Mission Valley Athletic League. Final designation of the teams and sites will be determined this afternoon.

At press time five berths had been determined in the playoffs. Besides Amador the other teams are DVAL champion College Park, Alameda County Athletic League champ Berkeley, Catholic League titlist St. Josephand Marin champion Terra Linda.

Mission Valley and the Hayward Athletic League held their title games last night. There will also be an at-large team picked from several second place squads.

There is some interesting contrasts among the teams that are contending for the section championship.

Amador has a disciplined passing game offense and generally works for shots from inside. The Dons use a lot of man-to-man defense. They have led the EBAL in defense the past seven seasons.

St. Joseph has a similar offense to Amador's. The Pilots can fast break when the opportunity is there but prefer to run a disciplined offense with mostly inside shooting. They also have a man-to-man defense. The Pilots are small with starting center Anthony Taylor the tallest man at 6-3. However, St. Joseph is quick and plays very intensely, particularlyin close games. They beat Bishop O'Dowd, 40-39 and Moreau, 52-50 in the CAL playoffs last week.

On the other hand, College Park and Berkeley run fast break offenses. College Park, the East Bay's top-ranked team with a 25-0 record, has averaged 72 points per game against slightly less than 54 for its opponents. The Falcons were awesome in dumping Ygnacio Valley and Clayton Valley by more than 20 points inthe DVAL playoffs.

The Yellowjackets have a balanced attack which has scored at a 71-point-per-game clip. Berkeley has given up 59.3 markers per contest.

Marin County champion Terra Linda is also a high scoring team, averaging 70.3 points per contest and allowing only 56. Center Barry Carr (6-5) have averaged 18 points per contest for the Trojans. Forward Robert DeGraves (6-3) is also a fine scorer, making 32 points in one contest this season.

Gaels struggle at Oroville

Dublin High School's basketball team is finding the going rough at the J.C. Nesbitt Tournament in Oroville this weekend.

The Gaels have tied one game and lost three others in action though Friday night. Dublin fell to a powerful Highlands team, 49-26 Thursday night and lost to Las Plumas of Oroville 51-45 the same night. Friday night the Gaels fell to Eschlon, 48-39 but came back to gain a tie with Sonora, 41-41.

Other Friday night games saw Oroville upset Highlands, 32-28 and topple Grace David of Modesto, 33-27.

The tournament invloves some of the top prep teams in the Sacramento Valley. Highlands finished second in Sacramento's North Metro League and Oroville is one of the better teams in the Northern Section.

Soccer tilt

The Tri-Valley Soccer Club, champions of the Alcosta League, take on Fresno First Division champion Araart at 12:30 this afternoon in Livermore Stadium.

The Tri-Valley team will have Bobby Arteaga and Eric Ahrendt of the Oakland Buccaneers for this contest.

The main game will be followed by a under-10 match between the Livermore Raiders and the Livermore Clippers at 2:30.

Seaver sees camp openings

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tom Seaver, the National League's Cy Young Award winner and the New York Mets' player representative, sees the possible opening of major league baseball's spring training camps this week as a result of progress made in recent talks between the owners and the Players Association.

"The owners said they would open the camps if progress is made in the negotiations," Seaver said Saturday. "Well, progress was made Friday, contrary to other reports. Good progress was made. Things are getting more reasonable."

The owners and players met in New York Friday, and Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, called that session "a fruitful exchange of views and ideas." But he stopped short of saying any significant progress had been made.

Seaver, however, said he had spoken to Miller Friday night and that he was optimistic that the opening of spring training, scheduled for Monday, might not be delayed too long.

Seaver said he anticipated some action after the Appellate Court in Kansas City hands down a decision on the appeal made by major league owners on the ruling of arbitrator Peter Seitz that made pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents. That decision is expected next week, and if the owners lose that appeal it could alter their negotiating stance.

Seaver has been holding informal workouts at Eckerd College here for players in the area, since the spring training facilities are off-limits. Tuesday's workout has been called off so players can go to Miami for a progress report from Miller. About 200 players are expected to be on hand.

Meanwhile, the 23rd negotiation session between Miller and the owners' player relations committee is scheduled for Fort Lauderdale on Monday. Another session is scheduled for Wednesday in Miami.

The only camp which will open as scheduled will be at Sarasota, Fla., where owner Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox says he will open the gates on Monday. But only 25 non-roster players will be permitted to work out.

Scientists' heirs fare well in scholarship test

LIVERMORE — Do scientists' children make better scholars?

It looks that way, fron the track record of 10 top Livermore students who have qualified as National Merit Scholarship finalists.

Every one of them has a scientist father.

All but two have fathers who work at the Lawrence Livermore Lab. The other fathers are physicists at GE Vallecitos and Sandia.

The fathers' professions range from technical writer to engineer to chemist. In most cases, the mothers are also well educated and pursuing interests outside of the home.

Counselors at both Livermore and Granada High expressed surprise when they noticed the coincidence. But the standardized college board and scholarship tests all 10 students have been passing with flying colors have rewarded the scientific, reasoned approach to problem-solving in addition to having major segments devoted to math.

The 10 local students are among more than 14,000 National Merit finalists being considered for the coveted scholarships. The awards include 1,300 corporate - sponsored four - year Merit Scholarships; 1,000 National Merit $1,000 awards; and 1,500 college - sponsored four - year scholarships.

The Granada High students who won the recently announced honor are: Dawn Rychnovsky, daughter of Ray and Sheila Rychnovsky of 1188 Camelia Drive, who plans to pursue environmental studies at UC Santa Cruz; Laurie Rodrigues, daughter of Richard Rodrigues of 1015 Via Madrid, Livermore, and Susan Rodrigues of Santa Cruz, who wants to study microbiology at Stanford; Kevin Smith, son of Renee and Gordon Smith, 5262 Irene Way, a future architect who plans to attend an Ivy League school; Joanne Kienzle, daughter of Bonnie and Henry Kienzle, 450 Brighton Way, a future engineering or pre-med student at either Northwestern of UC Berkeley; and Jean Ratcliffe, daughter of Ed and Missy Ratcliffe of 420 Covellite St., a future geneticist ("I decided in fifth grade when I saw those Mendelian charts.") Jean wants to go to Mills College next fall.

The Livermore High finalists are: Glen Kishi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tadashi Kishi of 4457 East Ave., who wants to study chemical engineering at UC Davis; Arlene Baak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Baak of 5255 Irene Way, planning to study biology at San Jose State; Gregory Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Clements, 806 South L St., who will choose among Harvard, UC Berkeley and Cal Tech to study math and physics; Gregory McFann, son of Virginia and Charles McFann of 2211 College Ave., who plans to attend UC Berkeley; and Valerie Heusinkveld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Heusinkveld of 3875 Pestana Way, a future chemistry student at Pomona.

AC to improve downtown service

PLEASANTON — It'll soon be easier to get to and from the downtown area.

Starting tentatively March 8, AC Transit feeder buses will come down Main Street to Neal, turn left onto Neal, travel Neal to First and go out First and Stanley to Livermore.

Bus stops on Main will be (for southbound passengers) at St. Marys and between the two driveways of Pleasanton Foods (for northbound passengers).

There will also be a stop on First Street at Neal (on the north side), on Santa Rita just south of Stanley (near Vervais) and additional stops north and southbound on Valley Avenue just east of Hopyard. The latter would serve those living or going to and from the Alpha Beta Shopping Center.

The route down Main to Neal and out First will apply in both directions but just during midday hours or approximately 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and holidays.

The downtown route was spurred by residents of the old city area and senior citizens residing in Kottinger Village and Pleasanton Greens who currently have to walk to Stanley and Santa Rita to catch a "U" line bus to Bay Area Rapid Transit stations, Livermore or Dublin.

Ken Lamb of the City of Pleasanton said a resolution with the details of the new routing must still be passed by the Pleasanton City Council.

Lamb said start - up of the downtown service was contingent on the city passing the resolution. However, it is possible service could begin prior to consideration of the resolution which is presently scheduled for the council on March 15.

The "U" and "U-P" lines currently come down Santa Rita Road, turn left onto Stanley and continue on to Livermore. They take the same route in traveling toward Dublin, and Hayward BART.

Pleasanton hears words of praise

PLEASANTON — Councilman Roger McLain could hardly believe his ears.

"Hey, call back the other newspaper," he said to the two reporters remaining at the press table Monday night. "Someone is saying something good about us."

Indeed, Leo Heckathorn, formerly a critic of the city council from his vantage point as a member of Citizens Against Redevelopment, stood up during the audience remarks part of the city council agenda and lavished words of praise on the city council for their listening to people.

Mayor Ed Kinney complimented Heckathorn for helping to facilitate the communication process himself.

McLain may not have been so happy a moment later when Heckathorn, talking about the coming "changing of the guard" (the city election March 2), said that two council members might be out in the audience the night the new city council members are sworn in. McLain and William Herlihy are the two council members facing election next week. Heckatorn got a big laugh for his comment from the few remaining from an a earlier audience of 27.

Urges 'Controlled growth'

Geldermann 'End fiscal and moral irresponsibility'

LIVERMORE — In an effort to end "fiscal and moral irresponsibility by a handful of people" here, Danville realtor Harlan Geldermann has announced his endorsement and support of city council candidates "who subscribe to 'controlled growth.'"

Geldermann's announcement was contained in a two and one-half page press release prepared by the Art Blum Public Relations and Advertising Agency of San Francisco.

In the release, he is described as "the prominent East Bay developer (who) has been advocating a maximum 45,000 population New Town to be phased over a 20-year period, in which all utilities and social services are pre - planned, as an altenative to current random subdivision sprawl."

Geldermann's New Town is proposed for the Las Positas Valley, an area north of Livermore's city limits which has been removed from Livermore's sphere of influence by the Alameda County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

The current city council, which has been labelled "no growth" has been opposed to New Town while some of the candidates running for the two council seats opening March 2 have indicated either their support for New Town or more of a willingness to consider Geldermann's proposal.

"With the upcoming election," Geldermann stated, "Livermore residents now have the opportunity to reclaim, indeed, rescue, their city from those who would put a stop to all growth; to those who use 'tomorrow' as an excuse to protect their 'today.'

"Those candidates for the Livermore City Council who realize the dangers of the current 'no growth' ultimatums and the fallacy of expending thousands upon thousands of taxpayer dollars in promoting the city's 'no growth' policies can count on my unqualified support.

"Most certainly — and most frankly — I want to see Las Positas built and most definately I want to see people seated on the council who are favorable to Las Positas.

"But there is more at stake than Las Positas; it's the overriding concern that so many have — as I do — that those who ride the Livermore Environmental horse will someday ride into the sunset and when they do, the picture — that rosy picture — will end.

"And when it does, those who are left — the families of tomorrow — won't have any place to live in the Livermore - Amador Valley unless they want to pitch a tent on 'unpolluted' land," he continued.

"I will back within the limits of current election laws those candidates who believe the future of Livermore lies in controlled growth — and are willing to do something about it," Geldermann added.

According to campaign contribution statements filed by all eight candidates, Geldermann has contributed $100 to Wolfgang Klamp's campaign.

Referring to the recent re-consideration of Livermore's sphere of influence by LAFCO which again left the Las Positas Valley out of the city's sphere, Geldermann wrote, "Reports are that Livermore will, again, attempt to overturn the twice - made decision through yet more legal action, spending many more thousands of badly needed tax dollars which could otherwise improve the school district and support expansion of the sewage treatment plant.

"It is just this type of fiscal and moral irresponsibility by a handful of people which must be ended.

"It is obvious that there are city council persons who simply cannot 'live by' the democratic process in recognizing the decisions of such authorized County bodies as LAFCO and the Board of Supervisors unless the entities and their decisions conform to these council person's particular desires and demands."

ELECT MARSHALL KAMENA MARCH 2
PAID POLITICAL AD BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT KAMENA

The remains of Juan Bautista de Anza came to a final resting place in a marble - lined crypt in the Cathedral de Nuestra de la Asuncion, in the small town of Arizpe in Sonora, Mexico. This photo was taken during the simple ceremony performed over the recently discovered bones of de Anza, about 1962, closing a colorful chapter in the history of Western America.

De Anza celebration upcoming

The lives of local residents will be touched April 4 by their own bicentennial history when they celebrate the advent of Juan Bautista de Anza, a Spanish frontiersman from Mexico, who discovered an overland route between Sonora and Upper California. In 1774, he led 34 men from Sonora over the Colorado Desert to San Gabriel (now Los Angeles). The next year, with 240 men, women and children, he journeyed from Mexico once again, over 1600 miles of rugged deserts and mountains to open the first land route to California and founded San Francisco in 1776.

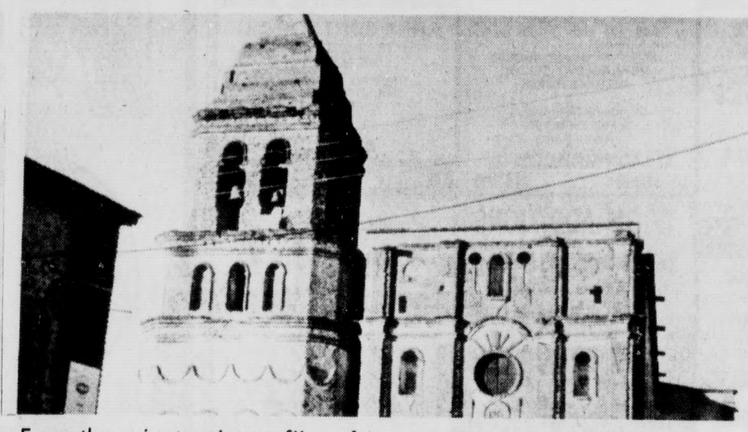
His mission was to colonize the San Francisco bay area. Many of his explorers remained to participate in establishing the communities of Livermore, San Lorenzo, Oakland, Hayward, San Leandro and Mission San Jose.

As a result, cultural, ethnic, religious and economic ties between this country and Mexico have been very close during the two centuries which have followed.

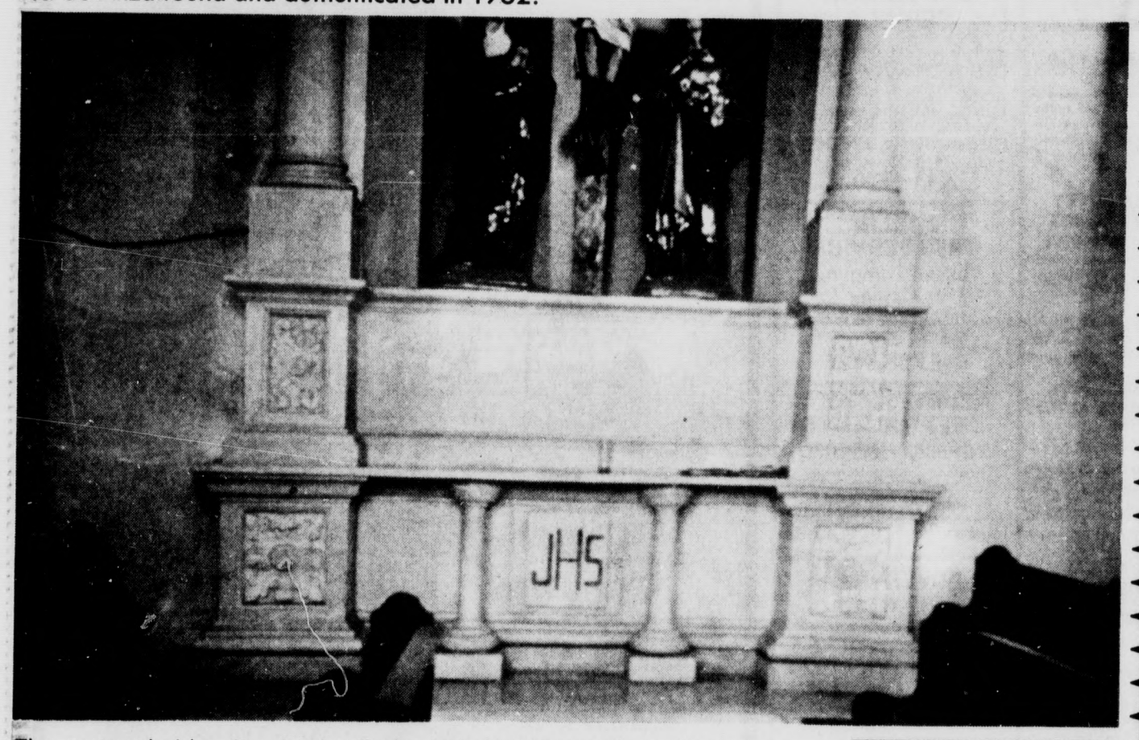
Livermore's Latin American Organization for Betterment, LASO Centro, Grupo Guadalupano are all working together with the Alameda and Livermore Bicentennial commissions to celebrate the occasion of the reenactment of this trek in the true tradition of a Mexican "fiesta." Commencing with a grand fiesta on March 31 at Mission San Jose, the trek of de Anza will be reenacted by local cattlemen and charros, in "costume." They intend to wind their way through Hayward, Oakland, the Berkeley Hills and finally into Livermore on April 4. Here they will commemorate the time de Anza camped at what is designated as Campsite No. 102 in Corral Hollow in what used to be the town of Tesla.

Plans call for a barbecue at the Barn area, Mexican entertainment including the Ballet Folklorico and all-day festivities to welcome "de Anza" and his "explorers."

The interior of the Cathedral de Nuestra de la Asuncion as it appeared in 1910 before extensive restoration was started. Almost immediately before this altar were the remains of Juan Baptista de Anza found and authenticated in 1962.



From the private picture files of Juanita Ruiz, owner of Pleasanton's Galeria Ruiz, came these outstanding pictures of the final resting place of Juan Baptista de Anza He is buried in this Cathedral de Nuestra de la Asuncion, in Arizpe, Sonora, Mexico. This picture was taked by Mrs. Ruiz in 1957.



The restored side altar in the Cathedral de Nuestra de la Asuncion now overlooks the sealed marble - lined crypt holding the remains of Juan Baptista de Anza, founder of San Francisco, explorer of the bay area. The reenactment of his trek will reach the Alameda County Line March 31, and will be the cause of a great celebration in Livermore, April 4, where he reputedly encamped on the fringes of the city 200 years ago.

WANT-ADS

Throw your hat into the ring (of Classified users, that is) and liberate yourself from those idle items. The quick cash results from your ad will buy you many a bonnet.

Advertising items for sale in Classified could increase your social life by as much as 38%. Think of all those interesting prospective buyers you meet.

If you're looking for a home on the range, you may just find one in Classified. And if your hacienda is for rent, a Classified ad will find a renter like a shot.

For the thrifty at heart there's nothing better than Classified for pinching pennies. Inexpensive to use, with BIG-SPENDER results!

Jumpin' Jupiter". For out of this world results, you can't beat the down to earth Want Ads.

To cap it off, Want Ads can do a lot for you: find willing workers, search for unusual items, announce your message to thousands, sell unwanted items, and if that extra cash goes to your head, there's a whole storehouse of values offered daily in the Want Ads. Placing a Want Ad is easy.

Better Homes Realty

BETTER HOMES AND BUYERS

Due to Better Homes growth in recent months, agents at Better Homes are coming in contact with more and more sellers and buyers. Extensive advertising, referrals and clients who are familiar with the professional standards of Better Homes agents help our agents sell our listings more quickly by having a steady supply of qualified buyers. Our commissions are excellent, but our potential client contact per agent is even BETTER. Call today for a confidential interview. Work where you can receive higher commissions, and get the benefit of more sellers and buyers. If you are an experienced agent you can start at 60% and work your way up to 85% within our company. We have a commission program that you should know about.

Scientist claims plutonium leak still a danger

A leak of one - half gram of plutonium at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in 1967 is still potentially dangerous to valley residents, Dr. John W. Gofman, Associate Director of LLL at the time of the leak, has told The Times.

Dr. Gofman has done considerable research into the link between exposure to radioactive materials and cancer. He organized the biomedical program at LLL in 1963 and was head of the program until 1965. He served as Associate Director of LLL in charge of biology and medical science until 1969.

In 1967, one - half gram of plutonium was accidentally released into lab effluent and found its way into the City of Livermore's sludge ponds.

Sludge from the ponds has been used as fertilizer by private citizens and by the city on parks and median strips.

Dr. Gofman said he disagreed with LLL's report "Evaluation of the Use of Sludge Containing Plutonium as a Soil Conditioner for Food Crops."

The report, presented in 1975 to the International Atomic Energy Agency in San Francisco, concluded the plutonium leak was not a significant problem to anyone.

"There's no such thing as a safe a dose of any radiation," said Dr. Gofman.

"People can get cancer in proportion to the dose all the way down to the lowest dose," he said.

He termed established radiation tolerance doses "nonsense."

Dr. Gofman said established tolerance doses are "at least 100 times more toxic, if not 1000 times more."

Plutonium, a deadly radioactive material, is most dangerous when inhaled. The lab study had concluded that a farmer cultivating and harvesting a field using sludge contaminated with plutonium would receive one - tenthousandth of the maximum permissible exposure over a fifty year period.

But Dr. Gofman said the exposure should be read "one - onehundredth." And that dose alone can cause cancer, he said.

"What constitutes a large amount of plutonium depends on your perspective," said Dr. Gofman. "My calculations have shown that one - sixteenth of a millionth of a gram of plutonium is enough to cause lung cancer in a smoker."

He said seven one-millionths of a gram can cause lung cancer in a non - smoker. Smokers are about 125 times as sensitive to plutonium.

If the one - half gram of plutonium leaked at LLL makes its way into the air, Dr. Gofman said it would be enough to cause cancer in thousands of people.

"Note that I said 'if it got distributed'," Dr. Gofman said. "It was not released in a form to get into the lung except over a long period of time."

LLL officials speculate that most of the plutonium is still trapped at the bottom of the sludge pond, out of harm's way.

"It's true the plutonium may have settled in the ponds," he said, "because plutonium has a tendency to settle and attach to certain prticles."

But Dr. Gofman wondered aloud who would keep watch over the ponds in years to come.

"The half - life of plutonium is 24,000 years," said Dr. Gofman, "and if the sludge is ever moved, it is subject to resuspension in the air."

Dr. Gofman said the accident at LLL demonstrates "it's not all that easy to contain plutonium."

"At LLL you have the world's best — the experts — handling this radioactive material," said Dr. Gofman. "One can imagine that when the nuclear industry gets into the hands of people with one - fiftieth or one - onehundredth of the training, things will go less well."

Dr. Gofman is currently Professor Emeritus at the University of California Berkeley where he taught medical physics.

LIMITED WARRANTY

WARDS warrants its passenger car tires for specified miles when used on passenger cars, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of: defects, normal road hazard failure, or premature tread wearout unless due to misalignment, WARDS will: 1. During first 10% of warranted mileage, replace the tire free; 2. During the remaining mileage, replace for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For adjustments, return tire to Wards with Warranty Booklet.

Prorata charge based on price in effect at time of return at branch to which returned, including Federal Excise Tax.
